It is simple. I expect the government and legal system to punish predatory business practices when they are judged as such. Microsoft should have little to no say so in what their penalty should be.

It should hurt them and cost them lest you send a message to them that because they have billions to try to change the truth of their conviction is not going to work.

Penalize them to the full extent of the law so that they hopefully learn a lesson. If you don't do that then just take you pathetic system and go home, you are not needed nor are you helpful.
